

How To Disable/Enable Register Globals

Written by

Wednesday, 29 April 2009 00:37 - Last Updated Thursday, 04 November 2010 08:04

To disable `register_globals`, create a file using any simple text editor (notepad is fine) and name it `php.ini`. Write the following code in the file:

`register_globals = OFF`

Then, upload the file to any folder you want to disable register globals in, or upload it to your `public_html` folder to disable register globals in your domain level.

The same method applies to enable `register_globals`, except the code in the php.ini file will look like this:

`register_globals = ON`

Enabling `register_globals` is a MAJOR security hole in your website!